Memorandum of Understanding

<< Insert your memorandum of understanding text here. A Memorandum of Understanding can be any type of agreement; there is no standard text for such an agreement. We have included a generic services agreement you can use if it is applicable to your situation. If you have received a Memorandum of Understanding from the client or agency you are responding to, include it here. Due to the complexity and legal implications of contracts, you will need to consult an attorney for contracts if you do not already have a contract. It is highly advised that you seek professional counsel for any contracts you obtain from third parties or that you alter yourself. While this is not legal advice, be aware that the entire proposal and all statements in it can be considered part of the contract; you may be held accountable for everything in your final proposal and contract. Consult an attorney specializing in your industry for assistance. >>
