Nu-Gen Graphic Design has identified the following needs for Brite Environmental Consulting.

Needs

Brite Environmental Consulting needs a unique logo to represent its state-of-the-art business identity, and new brochures, stationery, and business cards for use in its correspondence.

Market

Having a unique and easily recognizable logo and associated graphic elements will make Brite Environmental Consulting services easier to find and identify within their marketing niche. A distinctive logo can also elicit a positive “feel” from potential customers and attract new business.

Solution

Nu-Gen Graphic Design has a decade of expertise in developing logos and identities for all types of businesses. We want to be your partner in branding your company. Working in consultation with you, we will design a unique logo as well as designing and printing business cards, stationery, and advertising brochures. In addition, we can provide consultation on web site design and on future projects such as printed advertising fliers or online ads.
Project Deliverables

The following is a complete list of all project deliverables identified by Nu-Gen Graphic Design.

 Corporate Logo

Because all other branding elements (company colors, stationery headers, website design, etc.) stem from the logo, it is our foremost goal to work with you to deliver a distinctive logo to represent your organization. We will share with you the final graphic file of your logo so that you can easily use it on web sites or wherever you wish.

 Business Card Design and Printed Cards

After the logo is finalized, we will design distinctive business cards for your employees, and have them printed and delivered to you.

 Brochure Design and Printed Copies

Working with copy writers you designate, Nu-Gen Graphic Design will design and layout a general advertising brochure. We will oversee the printing and delivery of brochure copies to your corporate headquarters.

 Optional Service: Website Consultation/Design

Our designers are also available to consult with your programmers / IT team to design and implement a new company web site.

Style

Style is important. The style and design of corporate logos and associated materials sets the tone for business discussions and often has an effect on public opinion. We’d like to call your attention to the following style elements you should consider.

🔗 Color

The most obvious color scheme for an environmental consulting firm would probably be green. But while green inspires trust and is considered a soothing color, it’s not the most dynamic choice for a corporate design. We suggest that you check out the logos of your competitors and partners and see which color combinations suggest the feel you want for your logo. Also, please consider whether you will want to print your new logo on a variety of background colors or always display it on a neutral background.

🔗 Shape

Do you want a confined shape, such as a tight circle, square, or triangle? Or would you prefer a “looser” shape, with waves or irregular lines that can suggest movement and “flow”? A confined shape can convey an image of stability and trustworthiness, but a looser image can seem more modern and versatile.

🔗 Images

Do you need a specific image incorporated into your logo? For example, do you need a tree, a bird, an ocean wave?

🔗 Text

What words need to be incorporated into your logo? For example, do you want your complete company name? Do you want a tag line to always appear with your logo? What style of font do you prefer?

🔗 Feel

What sort of “feel” do you want for your logo? Whimsical? Soothing? Serious? We suggest that you come up with three adjectives you’d like your clients to use when describing your organization.

Summary

Nu-Gen has designed logos for organizations that run the gamut from law firms to rock bands. We value your input because we want to design the perfect logo to represent your unique organization.
